Benefits of breastfeeding for the baby

- Colostrum is the thick yellow first breast milk that is produced by the mother during pregnancy and just after birth. This milk is very rich in nutrients and antibodies to protect the baby from various diseases.
- Breast milk has the right amount of fat, sugar, water, protein and all of the nutrients that is required for the baby to grow.
- Breast milk is easier to digest.
- Breastfeeding has also been shown to lower the risk of SIDS (sudden infant death syndrome).
- Exclusive breastfeeding for 6 months reduces infant mortality due to common childhood illnesses such as diarrhea or pneumonia, and helps for a quicker recovery during illness.

Mothers Benefit from Breastfeeding

- Decreased risk of breast and ovarian cancers
- Bond is strengthened between mother and child
- Saves money
- Breast milk does not have to be prepared and is ready when needed
- Decreased blood loss after birth and return of uterus to normal size
- Decreased risk of heart disease
- Decreased risk of rheumatoid arthritis
- Decreased risk of diabetes

Breastfeeding benefits for Society

- Breastfeeding saves on health care costs. Breastfed babies need fewer doctor visits, prescriptions, and hospitalizations.
- Breastfeeding reduces the number of sick days that families must use to care for their sick children.
- No electricity or fuel is consumed.
- Breastfeeding requires no packaging, and its production does not harm the environment

Dietary guidelines for breastfeeding mothers

Breastfeeding mother can eat a regular well balanced food with the following suggestions:

a) Drinking enough liquids is important. Because the mother during the first few days after delivery excretes excess fluid accumulated during the pregnancy. Liquids, such as juice, water, milk, and soup are recommended to quench the thirst.

b) Mothers are advised to eat a variety of healthy foods. They should eat many different foods such as meats, beans, vegetables (especially leafy green vegetables), Fruits, Breads, Cereals, and Grains, Milk, Cheese, and Eggs to get adequate k.calories, protein, vitamins, and minerals and to remain healthy.

c) Vegetarian mothers may require supplementary vitamin B12, vitamin D, iron, and calcium during lactation.

d) Mothers are advised to limit their intake of coffee to 2 to 3 cups per day. Alcohol must be avoided.
