

Dr. T. M. Kotresh

Outstanding Scientist and Director
Defence Bio-Engineering and Electromedical Laboratory
Defence Research and Development Organisation
Ministry of Defence, Bengaluru

Dr. T. M. Kotresh, Scientist 'G' took over the charge of Director, DEBEL, DRDO, Bengaluru with effect from 01 July 2021. Dr. T. M. Kotresh joined DEBEL in the year 1988. He completed his post-graduation (Textile Technology) from Anna University in 1987 and was awarded Doctorate in Textile Technology from IIT, Delhi in 2010. His area of specializations includes design & Development of Life Support Systems & Protective Equipment for Armed Forces with special reference to Aeromedical, Bio-medical, NBC Technologies & Underwater technologies.

He has worked extensively in the design and development of Protective clothing and equipment based on Technical Textiles for the varied and inhospitable environments faced by the Armed Forces and the Para-military forces. The nature of work involves activities starting from initiation and culminating in the induction of the protective solutions.

He has made significant contributions towards the design, development, certification and induction of Technical Textiles based Protective Clothing for fighter pilots of Indian Air force and Protective equipment for other Services, electronically heated clothing, Design and development of Submarine Escape set, Design and development of Combat Free Fall Life Support system and the Individual Underwater Breathing Set for the Indian Army among others. More recently, he has spearheaded DEBEL's COVID relief efforts towards manufacturing, installation and commissioning of the Medical Oxygen Plants in the country under the PM-CARES fund as mandated by the DRDO HQ.

He has over 33 years experience of managing R&D projects in a system-oriented Life Sciences laboratory like DEBEL which inherently carries with it responsibilities of man-management & working with heterogenous/diverse teams (in terms of discipline/subject, hierarchical levels & orientation) apart from managing other resources.

Dr. T. M. Kotresh is a recipient of the following awards:
